

Role Experience for Certified Recovery Peer Advocate (CRPA) Candidates | 500 hours + 25 hours A Guide to Role Competencies for Peer Supervisors & Program Managers

To ensure that CRPA candidates are provided a quality and comprehensive 500-hour role experience, plus 25 hours direct supervision, supervisors and program managers are encouraged to review and use this guide to better support the development of the knowledge, skills, and abilities considered essential to competent performance in the peer recovery advocate role, as determined by the New York Certification Board (NYCB) - see Appendix. This guide was originally published in July 2022.

The following guide follows the four competence domains covered during initial certification training (Advocacy, Mentoring and Education, Recovery/Wellness Support, and Ethics). It is recommended that supervisors use this guide to help candidates maximize their learning during the role experience period.

In this document, the term “CRPA candidate” identifies the “peer” offering services, and “individual” identifies the person (i.e., client, patient, consumer, individual, etc.) being served. “Peer” and “individual” are the terms used by the International Certification & Reciprocity Consortium (IC&RC), originators of the role and its competencies. It’s the language used in the IC&RC Peer Recovery exam, a CRPA requirement.

Domain 1: Advocacy

During the 500-hour role experience, CRPA candidates should gain practical experience of advocacy using:

1. Strengths based and person-centered language when working with individuals
2. Shared decision-making techniques to develop self-advocacy skills within individuals
3. Professional advocacy to help individuals connect with recovery resources including, but not limited to:
 - i. Treatment
 - ii. Housing
 - iii. Benefits
 - iv. Healthcare
 - v. Recovery Community supports
4. Professional meetings and other forums for advocacy on behalf of individuals
5. Policies and the patient bill of rights to protect individual interests regarding treatment and recovery resources

Domain 2: Mentoring and Education

During the 500-hour role experience CRPA candidates should gain practical experience of mentoring and education using:

1. Professional relationships with individuals that respect personal boundaries and help with conflict resolution and problem-solving skills.
2. Effective client-centered communication skills such as asking open-ended questions, affirmations, reflections and summaries
3. Effective and appropriate self-disclosure as a means of building trust and educating through shared experiences
4. Empowerment strategies that strengthen the individual’s ability to build self-efficacy
5. Role modeling a recovery lifestyle that includes selfcare and other wellness practices
6. Resource connections to support the individual beyond treatment services

Role Experience for Certified Recovery Peer Advocate (CRPA) Candidates | 500 hours + 25 hours A Guide to Role Competencies for Peer Supervisors & Program Managers

Domain 3: Recovery/Wellness Support

During the 500-hour role experience CRPA candidates should gain practical experience of recovery/wellness support using:

1. The multiple pathways model to support individuals in establishing and, where appropriate, implementing recovery goals
2. Education to enhance the individual's knowledge of the recovery process and potential challenges inherent to it
3. A strengths-based approach that acknowledges the individual's innate strength and attributes that can be applied to the recovery process
4. Universal trauma informed approaches when working with individuals in individual and group settings
5. Collaborative practices to identify an individual's basic needs and recovery-oriented support systems

Domain 4: Ethical Responsibility

During the 500-hour role experience CRPA candidates should gain practical experience of ethical responsibility using:

1. The NYCB Code of Ethical Conduct to ensure the welfare of the individuals they serve - available for download at the NYCB homepage (<https://www.asapnys.org/ny-certification-board/>)
2. Agency policies related to confidentiality and patient protection, including appropriate relationships and professional boundaries, to maintain the safety of the individuals they serve
3. Culturally competent approaches to professional practice
4. Non-judgmental, person-centered practice not influenced by the candidate's own biases and attitudes toward recovery
5. Supervisory feedback, and feedback from the individual, to improve professional practice

The IC&RC Peer Recovery certification in NYS CERTIFIED RECOVERY PEER ADVOCATE : ROLE KNOWLEDGE | SKILLS | ABILITIES

The International Certification & Reciprocity Consortium's 2013 Peer Recovery (PR) Role Delineation & Job Analysis identified four performance domains with the following associated tasks (requiring specified knowledge, skills and abilities) as forming the basis of its peer recovery certification. The New York Certified Recovery Peer Advocate (CRPA) was developed as adjacent to the IC&RC Peer Recovery Certification and adopts its competencies and competence-based exam. There is no reciprocity between the NY CRPA and the IC&RC Peer Recovery certification. CRPA is exclusively offered by the non-profit New York Certification Board (NYCB), a member of the national Institute for Credentialing Excellence (ICE).

Candidates for this professional certification are required to demonstrate these competencies to NYCB per standards determined by the Board and posted to its website, <https://www.asapnys.org/ny-certification-board/#new-applicants>:
